EVERY PARTY
WITH ONE TV AND PHONES

It is a BAR. It is a PARTY. Host your way: your RULES, your VOICE, your PACE. On a dead Monday, Barty Central runs itself.

Want more power? Put a HUMAN on the MIC and run the room like a show. Same screen. Same teams. More CONTROL.

THE HOST ACROSS TOWN
IS STILL DRAGGING A LAPTOP
UP TO THE TV.

Scan it. Watch the proof. Then picture the same crowd in your room.

YOUR PARTIES. AT A GLANCE.

Six proof pages, no filler. Hover a tile on the web brochure, open the page, or scan the cover for the live reel.

A REAL TUESDAY. START TO CLOSE.
DEAD NIGHT IN. PACKED NIGHT OUT.
The whole night is a neon timeline, and the setup stays boring in the best possible way.

8:50 TV ON
The first question is already on the wall. No cart, no cables, no clipboard.

9:00 PHONE BUZZER
Buffalo wings were invented in which city?
A Buffalo B Memphis C Nashville D Kansas City

9:05 TABLES SCAN IN
Every team joins on a phone. Their phone is the buzzer all night.

9:15 A REAL NIGHT

9:25 PODIUM HITS
The room gets a real finish instead of a shrug and a spreadsheet.

9:35 THEY POST IT
The winning team sends a scoreboard with your bar name rising along.

PROOF IS ONE TAP AWAY.
The reel shows this exact sequence: TV question, phones, switch, podium, share card.

FAST TRIVIA, BUZZER PHONES, AND ROUNDS THAT FEEL BUILT FOR THE ROOM.
Start with the game every table anybody understands. Then switch modes before the room gets bored: jeopardy, bingo cards, bluff rounds, word boards, and a real podium finish.

SCREEN CAN PAY FOR ITSELF.
A local sponsor gets the side-between rounds. Winning teams post the scoreboard with your bar name attached. Your screen becomes the game, the ad spot, and the memory people carry home.

STOP STACKING VENDORS ON THE SAME TELEVISION.
One branded surface is easier to run, easier to sell, and easier for the room to understand.
